

NIKKI DIXON-FOLEY

Master Consultant, FutureSync International

Nikki is a certified neuroscience leadership coach and masterfully weaves the understanding of neuroscience principles into leadership execution. She is also an author and creates team and leadership excellence programs. As a real-world “culture curator,” Nikki was an integral part of a team distinguished by their thought-leadership and commitment to defying conventional wisdom. She and her team operated with an “impact-over-activity” strategy, and the awards and accolades followed. She is admired for her keen operational mindset regarding forward-thinking organizational philosophies such as open-book management and The Great Game of Business.

Nikki holds a Master of Science degree in organizational leadership and has a powerful track record of building culture with intent. She lives in Bozeman, MT, where she enjoys the blessings of family, friends, and the beauty of the Gallatin Valley.