

Eric Johnson, MD

Professor, University of North Dakota School of Medicine and Assistant Medical Director – Diabetes Center, Altru Health System

Eric Johnson, MD, is a professor at the University of North Dakota School of Medicine & Health Sciences. He also serves as the assistant medical director for the Diabetes Center at Altru Health System in Grand Forks. A graduate of the University of Nebraska Medical Center, Dr. Johnson completed his residency in family medicine at the University of North Dakota-Fargo program and is board certified in family medicine.

Dr. Johnson has Type 1 diabetes and has a deep personal interest in diabetes care and cutting-edge diabetes technology and telemedicine. He has done service work for American Diabetes Association and American Medical Association and hosts a call-in medical radio show on Wednesday mornings. When away from work, he enjoys cross-country skiing, reading, sports, writing, all kinds of music, and spending time with his family.