

Anh Tao | Digital Communication & Design Specialist

Anh is the Digital Communication and Design Specialist for CHAD, where she serves as a staff member who will develop communications and marketing content for CHAD. Currently, she is developing and implementing communications and marketing content that includes graphic design, copywriting, and social media. Anh will work with community health centers and internal CHAD staff to effectively share health center stories that will successfully evolve community needs and experiences.

Prior to joining CHAD, Anh worked in the entertainment industry, where she conducted extensive research on newsworthy events, established and grew social media presence, built relationships, and consulted with clients during pre and post-production to fulfill their needs.

She graduated from North Dakota State University with a bachelor's degree in visual arts & strategic communications. Anh also studied abroad in South Korea at Ewha Women's University, where she broadened her studies on visual arts, culture, and different world views.

Anh currently lives in Fargo with her family and dog named Lucky. In her free time, she enjoys traveling, reading, watching Friends, and spending time with her close ones.
